The 3rd Korea-Japan Joint Symposium on Powder Technology and ICRA Asian Workshop

Kangwon National University, 15 – 16 December 2011

Welcome

The 3rd Korea-Japan Joint Symposium on Powder Technology and ICRA Asian workshop will be held at the Kangwon National University, Chuncheon, Korea, from 15 to 16th of December 2011. This symposium will provide the latest research results and state of the art overview of technology in the exciting and rapidly evolving field of powder technology. Symposium sessions will also include invited lectures from ICRA (International Comminution Research Association) Asian chapter. The ICRA is a world wide, non-profit organization comprising individuals and companies interested in research and development in comminution and classification. The program for the symposium will be finalized later on, but, tentatively the following subjects will be covered:

- ◆ Production of particles
- ◆ Comminution
- ◆ Classification
- ◆ Particle coating and surface modification
- ◆ Modeling and simulation
- ◆ Mixing and granulation
- ◆ Powder handling

Manufacture's contributions and exhibits are welcome to promote further interaction between the researchers and the industry. Oral and poster presentations are warmly open to all.

Venue

Chuncheon is the capital of Kangwon province, the northeasternmost province of Korea. This area, surrounded by rivers and hills, offers a variety of relaxing outdoor activities, especially winter sports. The city is now a popular destination for east asian tourists as it was featured in the popular Korean drama serial, winter sonata.
